

ONLY ONE FIRE IN FORESTS SO FAR THIS SEASON

Herald Salem Bureau
SALEM, July 1.—It isn't the tenderfoot from the East that is a menace to Oregon forests, through carelessness with camp fires, but rather that native Oregonian who has lived in or near the timber all his life, according to F. A. Elliott, state forester.

However, only one forest fire has been reported this season, and that not a bad one.

Why Eastern campers set fewer fires than Westerners is not easily accounted for.

Easterners Respect Trees
"There are densely ignorant campers from the East," says Mr. Elliott, "who may need a lot of instruction as to how to make comfortable camps. They may camp in a shady place and then hunt two hours for water, but they do have respect for the trees. An Easterner who has driven 1000 miles across the treeless plains, praying for a tree big enough for a bird to roost in, is not going to rush out and hack down a lot of fine young trees out of simple cussedness, or leave a camp fire that will grow into a forest fire."

The state forester avers that the natives who have lived all their lives among the trees, and who have been taught to believe that Oregon's forests are inexhaustible, are first and most frequent offenders against the fire laws.

Citing figures relative to timber fire losses in recent years, the state forester shows that in 1917 the timber loss was $97,000, while the loss in mills, other buildings and sawed lumber was $1,044,000. In 1918 the loss on improvements, $155,000, was less than that on green timber, $734,000, lightning having started a number of forest fires that year.

In 1920 the improvement loss was $116,000 and the timber loss only $14,000.

Slashings Not Burned
Due to heavy rains last fall and winter, the forestry department has begun the present fire guarding season under some handicap caused by slashings conditions. Because of extremely wet weather it was impossible to burn slashings last fall. The let-down in the lumber market also had something to do with this, many lumbermen making no attempt to clean up as they would have done under normal conditions.

Careful annual surveys of all fire hazard areas is part of the policy of the state forester. Whenever a tract is found that needs attention it is listed. Burning of slashings has been in progress throughout the present spring and will continue as long as it does not menace standing timber.

Federal Money Available
More money is available this year than last. The new Weeks law provides $25,000 in federal money for fire fighting use as against only $7500 last year. It is the plan of the state department to spend about $30,000 this year in fire prevention and to save about $5,000 for spring operations.

ACHED TO THE VERY MARROW

PORTLAND MAN COULDN'T LIFT GLASS OF WATER TO MOUTH WITHOUT SPILLING IT.

"It was about three years ago I found out what a great medicine Tanlac is, and it did me so much good I have recommended it to hundreds of others," said William D. Root, 1409 Powers St., Portland, Ore., well-known employee of the St. Johns Lumber Co. for the past nine years.

"I was just about about all in when I started taking Tanlac and knew I had to get better right away or give up my job. I didn't know what it was to get hungry and hardly ate enough to keep going. I felt weak, sluggish and drowsy and was so tired out all the time my bones seemed to ache to the marrow. I was so shaky and trembled at times I couldn't lift a glass of water to my mouth without spilling it, and my sleep was so restless I felt worse mornings than when I went to bed. Rheumatism got in my arms and made my elbows so stiff I could hardly bend them.

"Tanlac soon had me eating like a wolf and enjoying every mouthful and I wasn't long in putting on twelve pounds in weight. The nervousness soon left me, my sleep became sound and refreshing, the rheumatism went away completely and I have kept in the best of condition ever since. I pin my faith to Tanlac; it's the greatest medicine ever heard of."—Adv.
